The Creation of Ea contains no clear references to an original unity and eventual separation of dragons and humans, but this may be because the poem in its presumed original form, in the Language of the Making, dated back to a time before the separation. The best evidence in the poem for the common origin of dragons and humans is the archaic Hardic word in it that is commonly understood as "people" or "human beings," alath. This word is by etymology (from the True Runes Atl and Htha) "word-beings," "those who say words," and therefore could mean, or include, dragons. Sometimes the word used is alherath, "true-word-beings," "those who say true words," speakers of the True Speech. This could mean human wizards, or dragons, or both. In the arcane Lore of Paln, it is said, that word is used to mean both wizard and dragon..one to the other in blank bewilderment.. "There is no king in Earthsea," the young man said, stern and righteous, "In my master's service,.to Pody if you like. And then back to Orrimy. I've had about enough..land to land." If he went along the coast of the Great Isle, in many of those villages he might.might be used by enemy wizards against him; and also to inspect his warships. A ship is a fragile.the larger bits of eggshell under loose dirt, patting it over them neatly.
